CHALLENGE

Employee suicide is considered the 'next frontier' of workplace safety risk. Holman recognized mental health safety training and crisis response procedures as a need to support the health and safety of their employees.

SOLUTION

Working with Holman's HR and wellness team, AWWS created a two-tier approach to supporting employee mental wellbeing and reducing the risk for suicidal crisis.

Leaders were trained to proactively identify warning signs, safely respond to signs of crisis, appropriately handle mental health disclosures, and reduce stigma.

In addition, digital education, and support resources were created for and provided to every Holman employee.

RESULTS

HOLMAN Leaders increased their:

- Confidence level of knowing how to safely intervene during an associate suicidal crisis by 90.1% with an average individual increase of 164.8%
- Awareness level of communication strategies to support associate mental wellbeing & reduce stigma by 74.4% with an average individual increase of 113.3%
- Knowledge of leadership strategies to support associates' mental wellbeing & resilience by 70.9% with an average individual increase of 89%

Source: Impact results were calculated through confidential pre & post training assessments distributed & collected by Holman Enterprises, independent of AWWS.*

*If you want to positively impact your workplace's mental health culture, schedule time with Mettie now! In just one 90 minute training session, 100% of our leadership team reported that they received actionable takeaways to become more aware, knowledgeable, and confident on this sensitive but important topic. UNBELIEVABLE RESULTS that validated our choice to partner with A World Without Suicide!
